cracy of that country. We have "Not only this, but the negro children are going to school and developing healthy bodies in the open air and healthy surroundings of country life instead of being shut up in the cotton mill, overworked, under-educated, and poorly developed physically-as the tendency must be in all cotton mills so long as the legislatures of the South are too subservient to the less humane mill owners to enact needed laws of restricting child labor in the mills-the less humane mill owners, we say, because there are many thoughtful and far-seeing mill owners who heartly favor stricter regulations.

"Remember, we have no ill will to ward the cotton manufacturers; we have no ill will toward the negro. We do realize very strongly, however, that the safety of the South depends upon the presence of a large white rural population. The drift to the towns and the cotton mills not only affects this directly, but also indirectly, because when once the population of a community becomes predominantly negro, the small number of white people left may be forced to move out in order to find sufficient numbers for a society of their own.

"It was a wise saying of James Oliver's, 'Happy is the land that is tilled by the man who owns it,' and the great need of the South today is to encourage the holding of small farms by white farmers. We repeat, that we say this in no ill will to the negro-in fact, it should not be necessary for us to say this, because no one else in the South has preached more persistently than we the doctrine that it is the intelligent, prosperous negro who helps, and the ignorant, poverty-breeding negro who makes us all poorer-but we say this for the good of white and black alike because the best interests of both races demand that the rural South maintain its large white population. Unless this is done the negro himself will not progress as rapidly as he will with white guidance, and unless this is done, the cities of the South must also inevitably go backward.

"We urge every tenant-farmer, and especially every white man who for any reason is thinking of becoming somebody's hired man in town instead of owning his home in the country, to buy land. The great plantations of the South, for the good of our section as a whole, must be broken up. We must encourage the spirit of home owning, with every man sitting under his own vine and fig tree, and we must especially encourage the development of a great class of small white farmers.

"The saving of the rural South to the white race is one of the most important problems now before the people of the Cotton Belt.

"In this connection, there is another thing that ought to be mentioned, and that is the problem of immigration. The Farmers' Union and other farmers' organizations are right in protesting against the coming of large numbers of Italians, Russians, Hungarians, Poles, etc. This would only make a bad matter worse, and complicate matters still further. What would help, however, is the coming of raising and other lines of diversified agriculture. These Northern and Western farmers will also set a good example for our Southern people in that they are ready to do any and all kinds of work with their own hands, entirely independent of hired labor. As a Southerner, reared on the farm and a descendant of generations of Southern farmers, we must confess has just been received by Miss Desma Japanese girl. HE QUITS PRISON TO SEEK FREEDOM

PATRICK LEAVES SING SING TO ARGUE IN COURT.

For Second Time Lawyer, Serving Life Sentence for Murder, Is Allowed to Appear in Court.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 .- For the second time this week, Albert T. Patrick, the lawyer serving a life sentence in Sing Sing for the murder of William Marsh Rice, emerged yesterday from prison seclusion to renew tighting for freedom.

The prison lawyer, undismayed by the failure of his repeated attempts to secure his release from prison, had a new point to urge upon the judges of the appellate division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn. He contends that he has already virtually suffered part of the penalties of the death sentence, through confinement in the death house before his reprieve was granted. There is no legal justification for placing him again in jeopardy for the same offense, he asserts.

Patrick appeared before the appellate division with his counsel, William L. McDonald, but made his argument in person. He recited the history of his case, and went over the ground of his former objections to a commutation of his sentence by Governor Hughes, which he said was against his wishes and without his consent.

Taking up his new point, Patrick declared that absolutely nothing hadbeen done either to carry out the sentence of execution or to set aside, except through a stay granted by Justice O'Brien, of the Court of Appeals.

This also was applied for against his expressed directions to his counsel, and he declared that it had no legal effect, particularly as he contended that the court had no jurisdiction, and it was not in session when the staying order was issued.

Asked by a member of the court if he considered himself justified in employing this order of a friendly judge as a means of escape from prison, Patrick replied that he did, in view of the fact that the whole proceeding was against his explicit orders.

After P trick had concluded his argument Justice Jenks ordered the writ of habeas corpus dismissed and Patrick was sent back to Sing Sing prison. Justice Jenks said that Patrick had developed no new grounds for a reopening of his case.

carried, a splendid chorus and quartet, Coburn's Greater Minstrels presented several new voices at the New Baird last night, and two of the old favorites who were remembered by many. Ollie Coghlan, lyric tenor, sang several of this season's hits, and is in better voice than last season. He is a nephew of the actress Rose Coghian, and possesses a most pleasing voice and personality. Robert C. Hockett, the basso of two years ago, has also returned to this company and his magnificent voice was at its best last night, singing two of the latest bass solos, either one of which is a splendid number. Harry Morrison of Parkersburg, W. Va., a robust tenor and Yodler, is perhaps the strongest favorite among the new singers this season, and both his tenor solo and his Yodle were strong hits of the first part. L. C. Berry, robust baritone, possesses the most phenon-enal voice of any baritone ever seen with this company. He is also from Parkersburg, and his singing is easily a feature of the performance. "Take Me With You in Your Dreams," To the End of the World," "Good Night, Dear," are included in his selections, and Berry is far ahead of Robert Wade of last season, who was such a favorite at all points. The quartet is composed of Coghlan, Berry, Morrison and Hockett, and is the best singing four ever with this at-

AT THE TENT SHOW.

Park Company Entertained Largest Audience of Week Last Night.

Notwithstanding that there were other attractions in town, the C. W. Park Company entertained at their big tent last night the largest audience of the entire week, and those who attended left well pleased.

The production last night was the famous novel, "The House of a Thousand Candles," dramatized, and which is being produced with success throughout the entire country, nearly a hundred theatrical companies using the copywright. It is one of Park's best and most successful plays, and the large audience last night were delighted at the clever manner in which it was produced. It is truly a play of merit, and there is no wonder that it has proved such a winner everywhere it has been seen.

PROHIBITION IN CONGRESS.

The Anti-Saloon League is going to make a strong effort this winter to cants into prohibition States, says The Savannah News. "On to Washington" the league understand the situation. They met in conference in Chicago on Tuesday and began planning their work for the coming year.

It isn't clear what Congress can do to assist the league in keeping liquor $2.50 six months; $1.25 three months; or shipments out of the prohibition tenth of the whole day's feed. But States. At its last session it passed a law preventing express companies from acting as agents of liquor houses. It was thought at the time that Congress went about as far as it legally could in aiding the prohibition cause. If the Anti-Saloon League can show it by the introduction of a little tankwherein it can constitutionally give additional assistance to the prohibition cause it may get a favorable hearing, but it is certain that Conany part of the United States, for $1.00 gress will do nothing knowingly of doubtful constitutionality to help that or any other cause. QUICKSAND.

How It is Formed and its Grewsome Characteristics.

To most persons the word "quicksand" gives a sensation of horror similar to that produced by the thought of a snake, and many sensational accounts have given to quicksand almost human attributes. No ordinary observer would be able to distinguish dry quicksand from any other sand, and the average person would be unable to restore it to its "quick" properties even if be tried. If water is mixed with the quicksand the mass does not become mobile, and if the water is drained off the sand will be found firmly packed.

Quicksand is comparatively very light, weighing about ninety-four pounds to the cubic foot, while other forms of sand run as high as 171 pounds. Quicksand when examined under the microscope will be found to have rounded corners, like river sand, as distinguished from "sharp" sand. It is quicksand that is used in hourglasses and egg glasses, partly because of its fineness and partly because it does not eventually cloud the glass by scratching, as would the sharp sand. It is to its lightness that quicksand owes its deadly qualities, and a demonstration of how it becomes "quick" may be given by placing a quantity in a bucket and adding water by pressure through a hole in the bottom, ailowing the water to overflow very slowly when it has worked up through the sand. The upward current will be found to loosen the sand and to raise the surface very slightly, separating and lubricating the particles so that they are easily displaced.

The bucket now contains genuine quicksand. The sand, owing to the support it receives from the water, has its weight, or supporting power, reduced proportionately, weighing in the water but thirty-two and a half pounds as against ninety-four pounds when dry. Bulk for bulk, the mixture is nearly twice the weight of a man. but is too mobile to give support and too thick to swim in. In its natural state, presenting an apparently firm surface, resembling simply damp sand, it is the most deadly man trap con-

Quicksand requires in all cases an upward current which is not quick or strong enough to break through in the form of a spring. Ordinarily water flowing over quicksand will not make it dangerous. It may be formed in tidal rivers and on the shores of a porous stratum of ground below high water mark, and when the tide falls a return current is established through the porous (sandy) ground with a sufficient velocity to loosen the sand and make it "quick."

A permanent quicksand is found where a slow current of fresh water finds its way to the surface of the sand bed either in the bottom of a stream or elsewhere. Quicksands that are encountered during the sinking of walls and foundations are due to the influx of water when the work gets below "spring level" or the level of the water in the ground at that particular spot. The sand, being deprived of the lateral support of the water in the excavation, is pushed in from behind by the water currents flowing from all sides. One of the most peculiar and grewsome characteristics of quicksand is that it will soon engulf any object cast upon its surface, no matter how light that object may be, even a perfectly dry stick.-Harper's Weekly.

Eggs Worth Millions.

Two peached eggs on toast once formed the foundation of the great New York stock market. If the eggs were eaten securities advanced in price; if left untouched Wall street shivered and quotations crumbled. One morning the eggs proved worth a thousand times their weight in gold, for the news that they had been eaten with relish added 2 per cent to active stocks. Even 1 per cent on the $10,000,000,000 securities listed on the New York exchange would be equivalent to $100,000,000. By such trifles is Wall street swayed when seized by hysteria, when hypnotized by a personality, when lost to the sound reason that usually governs its actions .-Bert C. Forbes in Van Norden Maga-

WHAT IS A WHITE MAN?

A Puzzling Problem For the Racial Investigator.

The chief of the naturalization bureau at Washington is of the opinion that the "average man in the street" understands distinctly what a "white" man is. Apparently some persons can master a subject without studying it at all, while others who have looked into it deeply are not so dogmatically certain as the "average man in the street."

For example, the encyclopedias tell us that mankind was divided by Blumenbach into five races-namely, Caucasian, Mongolian, Ethlopian, American (Indian) and Malay. The words "Caucasian" and "white" are used synonymously. This classification was first published in 1781 and must have been known to our national legislators when in 1802 they passed the first naturalization law.

The Caucasian race includes Arabs, who are certainly no "whiter" than cannot be naturalized because they are not "white."

We are also told by the naturalization bureau that the Hindoo is not "white" within the meaning of the statute. But the encyclopedia says that it is a great error to separate the Hindoo from the Caucasian race. The Hindoo, it thinks, is much nearer the 'white" race than the Arab.

To puzzle the racial investigator still further, while everything is so clear tidal seas by the rising tide saturating to the "average man in the street," we are told by the encyclopedias that the original Caucasians-that is, the inhabitants of the Caucasus-are no longer regarded as Caucasians. They have been thrown out of the "white" camp and forced to go over to the Mongol.

Nor is the enigma any nearer solution when we are told by the naturalization bureau that Asiatics cannot be naturalized, but that Siberians can. although Siberians may be anything from Russians to Mongolians or Mongol-Turco-Tartars. -Boston Globe.

Minnesota Man Makes Sale Without Aid of Real Estate Agent and Did Not Pay One Cent

Mr. H. St. John of Cass county, Minn., says: "I sold my farm to a man in Iowa at my own price, and what is more to the point, I didn't have to pay a cent commission to any-

"I had given up all hope of ever selling when I happened across the advertisement of Leonard Darbyshire, Incorporated, Rochester, N. Y., and this concern, by a new system of bringing buyer and seller together, sold my farm."

Mr. St. John's success in selling his farm was due to reading a booklet issued by Leonard Darbyshire, Inc., of Rochester, N. Y. This booklet tells of a new and successful method of finding buyers for farms and real estate, business properties and patents. The Corporation issuing this book are not real estate agents and do not accept a penny in commission on sales made by their assistance. Their plan of cutting out the real estate agents has met with remarkable success, and owners throughout the country are availing themselves of this opportunity to sell quickly places which for a long time remained in the hands of real estate agents, who failed to sell, for the reason that the commission which the agent had placed upon the property had killed

.It is said that Mr. Leonard Darbyshire, the president of the concern, is doing more to assist property owners the Turks, yet Turks, the official says, to sell than all the real estate agents in America combined, and anyone wishing to dispose of anything anywhere at any price, would do well to write to Leonard Darbyshire, President, Dept. 107, Rochester, N. Y., giving a brief description of the property for sale, and asking him to send a free copy of his booklet explaining his new method of selling.

It Sounded Hopeful.

QUICKSAND.

How It is Formed and Its Grewsome Characteristics.

To most persons the word "quicksand" gives a sensation of horror similar to that produced by the thought of a snake, and many sensational accounts have given to quicksand almost human attributes. . No ordinary observer would be able to distinguish dry quicksand from any other sand, and the average person would be unable to restore it to its "quick" properties even if be tried. If water is mixed with the quicksand the mass does not become mobile, and if the water is drained off the sand will be found firmly packed.

Quicksand is comparatively very light, weighing about ninety-four pounds to the cubic foot, while other forms of sand run as high as 171 pounds. Quicksand when examined under the microscope will be found to have rounded corners, like river sand, as distinguished from "sharp" sand. It is quicksand that is used in hourglasses and egg glasses, partly because of its fineness and partly because it does not eventually cloud the glass by scratching, as would the sharp sand. It is to its lightness that quicksand owes its deadly qualities, and a demonstration of how it becomes "quick" may be given by placing a quantity in a bucket and adding water by pressure through a hole in the bottom, allowing the water to overflow very slowly when it has worked up through the sand. The upward current will be found to loosen the sand and to raise. the surface very slightly, separating and lubricating the particles so that they are easily displaced. The bucket now contains genuine quicksand. The sand, owing to the support it receives from the water, has its weight, or supporting power, reduced proportionately, weighing in the water but thirty-two and a half pounds as against ninety-four pounds when dry. Bulk for bulk, the mixture is nearly twice the weight of a man, but is too mobile to give support and too thick to swim in. In its natural state, presenting an apparently firm surface, resembling simply damp sand, it is the most deadly man trap conceivable. Quicksand requires in all cases an upward current which is not quick or strong enough to break through fu the form of a spring. Ordinarily water flowing over quicksand will not make it dangerous. It may be formed in tidal rivers and on the shores of a porous stratum of ground below high water mark, and when the tide falls a return current is established through the porous (sandy) ground with a sufficient velocity to loosen the sand and make it "quick."

A permanent quicksand is found where a slow current of fresh water finds its way to the surface of the sand bed either in the bottom of a stream or elsewhere. Quicksands that are encountered during the sinking of walls and foundations are due to the influx of water when the work gets below "spring level" or the level of the water in the ground at that particular spot. The sand, being deprived of the lateral support of the water in the excavation, is pushed in from behind by the water currents flowing from all sides.

One of the most peculiar and grewsome characteristics of quicksand is that it will soon engulf any object cast upon its surface, no matter bow light that object may be, even a perfectly dry stick .- Harper's Weekly,

Eggs Worth Millions.

Two poached eggs on toast once formed the foundation of the great New York stock market. If the eggs were eaten securities advanced in price; if left untouched Wall street shivered and quotations crumbled. One morning the eggs proved worth a thousand times their weight in gold, for the news that they had been eaten with relish added 2 per cent to active stocks. Even 1 per cent on the $10,000,000,000 securities listed on the New York exchange would be equivalent to $100,000,000. By such trifles is Wall street swayed when seized by hysteria, when hypnotized by a personality, when lost to the sound reason that usually governs its actions .--Bert C. Forbes in Van Norden Maga-

WHAT IS A WHITE MAN?

A Puzzling Problem For the Racial Investigator.

The chief of the naturalization bureau at Washington is of the opinion that 'the "average man in the street" understands distinctly what a "white" man is. Apparently some persons can master a subject without studying it at all, while others who have looked into it deeply are not so dogmatically certain as the "average man in the street."

For example, the encyclopedias tell us that mankind was divided by Blumenbach into five races-namely, Caucasian, Mongolian, Ethlopian, American (Indian) and Malay. The words "Caucasian" and "white" are used synonymously. This classification was first published in 1781 and must have been known to our national legislators when in 1802 they passed the first naturalization law.

The Caucasian race includes Arabs, who are certainly no "whiter" than cannot be naturalized because they are not "white."

We are also told by the naturalization bureau that the Hindoo is not "white" within the meaning of the statute. But the encyclopedia says that it is a great error to separate the Hindoo from the Caucasian race. The "white" race than the Arab.

To puzzle the racial investigator still further, while everything is so clear tidal seas by the rising tide saturating to the "average man in the street," we are told by the encyclopedias that the original Caucasians-that is, the inhabitants of the Caucasus-are no longer regarded as Caucasians. They have been thrown out of the "white" camp and forced to go over to the Mongol.

Nor is the enigma any nearer solution when we are told by the naturalization bureau that Asiatics cannot be naturalized, but that Siberlans can. although Siberians may be anything from Russians to Mongolians or Mongol-Turco-Tartars. - Boston Globe.

SOLD HIS FARM

Minnesota Man Makes Sale Without Aid of Real Estate Agent and Did Not Pay One Cent Commission.

Mr. H. St. John of Cass county, Minn., says: "I sold my farm to a man in Iowa at my own price, and what is more to the point, I didn't have to pay a cent commission to any-

"I had given up all hope of ever selling when I happened across the advertisement of Leonard Darbyshire, Incorporated, Rochester, N. Y., and this concern, by a new system of bringing buyer and seller together, sold my farm."

Mr. St. John's success in selling his farm was due to reading a booklet issued by Leonard Darbyshire, Inc., of Rochester, N. Y. This booklet tells of a new and successful method of finding buyers for farms and real estate, business properties and patents. The Corporation issuing this book are not real estate agents and do not accept a penny in commission on sales made by their assistance. Their plan of cutting out the real estate agents has met with remarkable success, and owners throughout the country are availing themselves of this opportunity to sell quickly places which for a long time remained in the hands of real estate agents, who failed to sell, for the reason that the commission which the agent had placed upon the property had killed he sale.

.It is said that Mr. Leonard Darbyshire, the president of the concern, is doing more to assist property owners the Turks, yet Turks, the official says, to sell than all the real estate agents in America combined, and anyone wishing to dispose of anything anywhere at any price, would do well to write to Leonard Darbyshire, President, Dept. 107, Rochester, N. Y., giving a brief description of the property for sale, and asking him to send Hindoo, it thinks, is much nearer the a free copy of his booklet explaining his new method of selling.

It Sounded Hopeful.

A young man who was not particularly entertaining was monopolizing the attention of a pretty debutante with a lot of uninteresting conversa-

"Now, my brother," he remarked in the course of a dissertation on his family. "is just the opposite of me in every respect. Do you know my brother?"

"No." the debutante replied demurely, "but I should like to."-Lippincott's.

The Only Way. "Is there any method that will enable a man to understand a woman?" queried the innocent youth.

"The only way to understand a woman," replied the home grown philosopher, "is not to try. Under these circumstances she will reveal herself sooner or later."-Chicago News.
